

Kathryn Scott Osler | The Denver Post

HEADS UP ON SCULPTURE | With the help of a crane, from left, Matt Gaston, sculptor Douglas Kornfeld and Mike Mancarella lift into place Monday a sculpture called “Meeting of the Minds,” just south of the City Park golf clubhouse. The sculpture, created by Kornfeld, features two giant steel heads, one of an African-American female in profile, right, and one of a white male. The artwork was chosen by Denver’s Public Art Program and will be dedicated on April 22.